John's primary focus is landlord representation throughout the Dallas market. He has leased and/or had oversight responsibilities of over more than 100 office buildings, and has been involved in over 1 billion dollars in lease transactions.

John also played a key role in preleasing multiple office buildings to help kick start new construction of over 5 million square feet of office buildings in the Metroplex. Through his knowledge of multiple leasing markets, he participated with a team of principals in acquiring multiple office buildings totaling approximately $200 million in value in the states of Texas, Colorado, Minnesota and California.

Prior to joining Avison Young, John was with the Dallas-Fort Worth office of Colliers International for three years as an Executive Vice President. Prior to joining Colliers International, he was the Principal of CASE Commercial Real Estate, a highly successful brokerage firm headquarter in Texas, which was comprised of brokerage services, global corporate services, tenant representation, property management and leasing with additional offices in Fort Worth, Austin, Houston and San Antonio. John is often involved in the most complex commercial real estate transactions in the Dallas market and has more than 30 years of specialization in office leasing and office brokerage.
